Pearl Jam—which includes Vedder (vocals), Stone Gossard and Mike McCree (guitars), Jeff Ament (bass) and Matt Cameron (drums)—is one of rock's most revealed bands and fans can't get enough live Pearl Jam performances.

As an influential Seattle-based grunge-rock band, Pearl Jam stormed through the 90s as one of the top bands of the decade. The band's songs, starting with the monstrous hit "Jeremy"—and its popular and award-winning music video—and firm policies, including a famous spat with event ticket giant Ticketmaster, made Pearl Jam a household name around the world.

Pearl Jam is still relevant to fans of rock as the band's hit songs like "Alive," "Animal," "Black," "Corduroy," "Daughter," "Dissident,"

"Even Flow," "Given to Fly," "Hail, Hail," "Jeremy" and "Not For You" can still be heard on popular rock radio stations nationwide. Also, the band's latest release, "Backspacer" is scheduled to hit stores on Sept. 22. The album's initial single "The Fixer" currently plays on radio waves across the country.

United Center is at 1901 W. Madison St. in Chicago. Tickets are sold-out for the Aug. 23 show while select seats remain for the Aug. 24 date, an all-ages show, for $66 each. For more info log on to www.pearljam.com.
